

A photograph of a large, modern university building with multiple stories and many windows, identified as the University of Tokyo. The building is light-colored with a grid-like facade. It is situated on a street with some trees and a clear sky in the background.